Get in the Game

Under the new health care law, more American Indian and Alaska Native people can get better coverage from a variety of providers, including tribal, urban, and Indian Health Service programs. But there is more! Doctor visits or hospital stays are all included, and you won't have any out-of-pocket expenses if your care is coordinated by an Indian health program. There are more health care choices for you, and better health for your whole community. The time to sign up is now, before you or someone you love really needs it. You may even be eligible for tax credits to help pay for health insurance. This makes it easy to afford health coverage. Sign-ups are happening now. Contact your local Indian health program about how you may qualify, or find out more at www.healthcare.gov/tribal. Get in the game!
