*November 7- The CMS Innovation Center’s Strategy to Support Person-centered, Value-based Specialty Care. Liz Fowler, JD, PhD, Purva Rawal, PhD, Sarah Fogler, PhD; Brian Waldersen, MD, MPH; Meghan O’Connell, MPH; Jacob Quinton, MD, MSHS. Background- In 2021, the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) established a goal to have 100 percent of Original Medicare beneficiaries and the vast majority of Medicaid beneficiaries in accountable care relationships by 2030 as part of the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Innovation’s (Innovation Center) strategic refresh. This means that beneficiaries should experience longitudinal, accountable care with providers that are responsible for the quality and total cost of their care. Accountable care requires access to and coordination of primary care and specialty care to meet the full range of patient needs. As the Innovation Center enters the second year of its strategic refresh, testing models and tools to improve access to high-quality, value-based specialty care is an area of critical focus.

*November 10- The Path Forward: Improving Data to Advance Health Equity Solutions. LaShawn McIver, M.D., MPH Director of the CMS Office of Minority Health A True Focus on Data to Advance Health Equity. As we look back over the last few years and reorient our perspective to the future of health care in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic, one lesson is clear. Many individuals, families, and communities will continue to experience health disparities as their true needs and barriers to achieving optimal health are left hidden by inadequate sociodemographic and social determinants of health (SDOH) data vital to drive solutions. As the largest payer for health care in the United States, CMS recognizes it must set the bar for meaningful health equity data collection and use across the health care system and is, for the first time making meaningful plans for transparency, accountability, and improvements to allow for data to better inform and shape policies across CMS programs.
