Special Edition (SE) article SE0822 clarifies Medicare payment of routine costs associated with clinical trials.

There are two concerns addressed in SE0822, regarding "Payment for Routine Costs in a Clinical Trial." They are addressed in the following questions and answers.

Provider Needs to Know...

1. Question: If the research sponsor pays for the routine costs provided to an indigent non-Medicare patient (the provider has determined that the patient is indigent due to a valid financial hardship), may Medicare payment be made for Medicare beneficiaries?

Answer: If the routine costs of the clinical trial are not billed to indigent non-Medicare patients because of their inability to pay (but are being billed to all the other patients in the clinical trial who have the financial means to pay even when his/her private insurer denies payment for the routine costs), then a legal obligation to pay exists. Therefore, Medicare payment may be made and the beneficiary (who is not indigent) will be responsible for the applicable Medicare deductible and coinsurance amounts.

The following is an excerpt from a document titled, Questions On Charges For The Uninsured

(http://www.cms.hhs.gov/AcuteInpatientPPS/downloads/FAQ\_Uninsured.pdf):

"Nothing in the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) regulations or Program Instructions prohibit a hospital from waiving collection of charges to any patients, Medicare or non-Medicare, including low-income, uninsured or medically indigent individuals, if it is done as part of the hospital's indigency policy.

By 'indigency policy', we mean a policy developed and utilized by a hospital to determine patients' financial ability to pay for services. By 'medically indigent,' we mean patients whose health insurance coverage, if any, does not provide full coverage for all of their medical expenses and that their medical expenses, in relationship to their income, would make them indigent if they were forced to pay full charges for their medical expenses.

In addition to CMS policy, the Office of Inspector General (OIG) advises that nothing in OIG rules or regulations under the federal anti-kickback statute prohibits hospitals from waiving collection of charges to uninsured patients of limited means, so long as the waiver is not linked in any manner to the generation of business payable by a Federal health care program – a highly unlikely circumstance."

Therefore, the provider of services should bill the beneficiary for co-payments and deductible, but may waive that payment for beneficiaries who have a valid financial hardship.

2. Question: May a research sponsor pay Medicare copays for beneficiaries in a clinical trial?

Answer: If a research sponsor offers to pay cost-sharing amounts owed by the beneficiary, this could be a fraud and abuse problem. In addition to CMS policy, the OIG advises that nothing in OIG rules or regulations under the federal anti-kickback statute prohibit hospitals from waiving collection of charges to uninsured patients of limited means, so long as the waiver is not linked in any manner to the generation of business payable by a federal health care program.

Background

The policies for payment of the routine costs of the clinical trial are outlined in Chapter 16, Section 40 (No Legal Obligation to Pay for or Provide Services ) of the Medicare Benefit Policy Manual. The policy in the manual states the following:

"Program payment may not be made for items or services which neither the beneficiary nor any other person or organization has a legal obligation to pay for or provide. This

exclusion applies where items and services are furnished gratuitously without regard to the beneficiary's ability to pay and without expectation of payment from any source, such as free x-rays or immunizations provided by health organizations.

Medicare reimbursement is not precluded merely because a provider, physician, or supplier waives the charge in the case of a particular patient or group or class of patients, as the waiver of charges for some patients does not impair the right to charge others, including Medicare patients. The determinative factor in applying this exclusion is the reason the particular individual is not charged."
