The Medicare Evidence Development and Coverage Advisory Committee met on May 21, 2008, to discuss the evidence, hear presentations and public comments, and make recommendations concerning the design and methodological issues that challenge clinical research regarding innovative neurorehabilitation techniques.

The meeting began with a discussion of conflict of issue matters, opening remarks by the CMS liaison and acting chair, followed by an introduction of the panel members.

CMS Presentation and Voting Questions. The lead analyst for this meeting presented the panel with the goals and agenda for the meeting and read the questions that would be discussed and voted upon by the panel. The lead medical officer then gave an overview of current CMS practice regarding requests for coverage for stroke-related technologies, background on stroke and its effects and current treatments.

Technology Assessment Presentation. Results of the technology assessment were presented by representatives of the McMaster University Evidence-Based Practice Center.

Guest Speakers. The panel heard from two invited guest speakers. The first spoke on the topic of selecting outcomes to inform policy, and the second on what constitutes a meaningful change in terms of health policy. Following each speaker's presentation they responded to questions from the panel.

Scheduled Public Speakers. The panel heard from a representative of American Academy of Physical Medicine and Rehabilitation, an individual clinician/professor, a representative of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association, a representative of Neurotech Network, and a representative of the National Association of Rehab Providers and Agencies.

Open Public Comments. A private consultant addressed the panel.

Questions to Presenters. An extensive question and answer session was held between the panel, presenters and commenters.

Initial Panel Discussion. The panel conducted an extensive initial discussion prior to casting their votes. During the discussion the panel agreed to add a sixth category, “don’t know,” to questions four through seven. The panel also agreed to modify questions four through eight to add the phrase “or comparable measures which have been validated as” following the word “measures” in the first line of each question, and to delete the word “is” at the end of the first line.

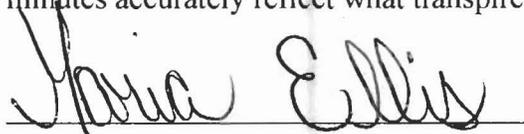

Formal Remarks and Voting. The panel voted on voting questions and made specific discussion points on the discussion-only questions. Panelists displayed their numerical votes, which were recorded by staff. During the voting process, it was the consensus of the panel on question eight to vote separately on question 8.A referring to narratives and on question 8.B as currently validated scales.

Final Open Panel Discussion. Following the votes, each member was given an opportunity to express any comment they wished CMS to specifically consider.

Final Remarks. Before adjournment, Dr. Jacques and Dr. Satya-Murti thanked the panelists and other participants.

Adjournment. The meeting adjourned at 3:19 p.m.
