Home Oxygen Therapy Electronic Clinical Templates

Feedback on Version 1.0

- CMS received feedback on the initial set of templates (Version 1.0).
- Respondents provided a broad set of input on the approach, scope, and appropriateness.
- The following summarizes the most significant comments:
 - Calling these suggested list of elements, templates is misleading.
 - Additional elements were noted as useful for each of the three “templates”.
 - Provide a list of appropriate values for specific elements will facilitate implementation and utilization.
 - Provide suggest element format (e.g. text, numeric).
 - Indicate which elements are required or optional (depending on the specific patient conditions).
 - Common naming of same elements across templates.

General Changes for Version 2.0

- In response to these comments, CMS has:
 - Provided second version of the suggested electronic clinical template elements and renamed them Clinical Data Elements.
 - Added a “value set” of appropriate responses, including “other”.
 - Added suggested format for the element (e.g. text, numeric).
 - Indicate which elements should be considered required to support appropriate documentation.
 - Provided common element names (and codes) across all templates.
