ITU Indian Health Service facilities, tribally operated 638 health programs, and Urban Indian Health Programs. ITU facilities may be referred to as American Indian Health Facilities.

Coinsurance Your share of the costs of a covered health care service, calculated as a percent (for example, 20%) of the allowed amount for the service. You pay coinsurance plus any deductibles you owe. American Indians and Alaska Natives (AI/ANs) who are eligible to receive services from an ITU are exempt from coinsurance in Medicaid and the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP).

Copayment (Copay) A fixed amount (for example, $15) you pay for a covered health care service, usually when you get the service. The amount can vary by the type of covered health care service. AI/ANs who are eligible to receive services from an ITU are exempt from copayments in Medicaid and CHIP.

Deductible The amount you owe for health care services your health insurance plan covers before your health insurance or plan begins to pay. AI/ANs who are eligible to receive services from an ITU are exempt from deductibles in Medicaid and CHIP.

Extra Help A Medicare program to help eligible people pay Medicare prescription drug costs.

Income How much money you have coming to you each month.

Premium The amount that must be paid for your health insurance or plan. You or your employer usually pays it monthly, quarterly, or yearly.

Resources Money or other items of value you have saved or have available, like stocks, bonds, or a savings account. Countable resources that affect your eligibility for the Medicare Savings Programs do not include your home, one car, your burial plot, burial costs (up to $1,500 if you have put that money aside), furniture, or other household or personal items.

What is the Medicare Savings Programs (MSP)?

It is a Medicaid program designed to help pay your Medicare costs if you have limited finances. To qualify for an MSP, you must have or be eligible for Medicare Part A and meet income and asset guidelines (see charts).

Can I use an MSP to help pay for my Medicare and still receive services from my Indian Health Service, my Tribal Health Program, or my Urban Indian Health Program (ITU)?

Yes, you can always receive services from your ITU. But by enrolling in Medicare with help from an MSP, you benefit by having greater access to services that may not be provided by your ITU and your tribal community benefits through increased resources to your ITU program. In addition, the MSP may help pay for costs, such as premiums, deductibles and co-payments, for services that you receive from a non-ITU provider.

There are three main MSPs that can help you save money on premiums and other costs for 2022. These amounts may increase each year. If your income and resources are slightly higher, you should still apply. Three key questions

If you answer “yes” to these three questions, call your local or state Medicaid office to see if you qualify for an MSP in your state.

1. Do you have or are you eligible for Medicare Part A (also known as hospital insurance)?
2. Is your income at or below the income limits listed below?
3. Do you have limited resources? Countable resources include money in a checking or savings account, stocks, and bonds.

(*These monthly income limits are for 2022)

If you have income from working, you may qualify for these benefits even if your income is higher than these limits. Many states determine your income and resources, so you may qualify in your state even if you think you’re above these limits. Limits are slightly higher in Alaska and Hawaii. Some states have higher resource levels or don’t count resources. Check with your state to find out more.
