

This map displays the distribution of the elderly population across Florida's counties. The color intensity represents the percentage of residents aged 65 and over, with darker red indicating a higher percentage. The highest concentrations are found in the central and southern parts of the state, particularly in the counties around Orlando and in the southern tip. The lowest concentrations are typically found in the northern and western parts of the state.

National stroke prevalence: 3.8%

