Changing from Marketplace Health Insurance to Other Coverage

You may need to end Marketplace coverage if you or anyone in your household gets other health coverage, like through a new job, Medicare, Medicaid, or the Children's Health Insurance Program (CHIP).

Here are 3 things to know when changing from the Marketplace to other coverage.

1. Know when Marketplace coverage ends and new coverage begins. It's important that you don't have a gap in coverage.
 - If you think you may be eligible for Medicaid or CHIP, don't cancel your Marketplace plan until you get a final decision about your eligibility.
 - Once you end your Marketplace coverage, you won't be able to re-enroll until Open Enrollment, unless you're eligible for a Special Enrollment Period due to a qualifying life event—like getting married, having a baby, moving, or losing health coverage. Go to HealthCare.gov/coverage-outside-open-enrollment/special-enrollment-period for a list of qualifying life events.

Ending coverage differs depending on your situation.

- If you're ending Marketplace coverage for everyone on your application, you can either choose to end coverage the day you cancel or choose an end date in the future.
- If you're ending Marketplace coverage for just some people in your household, like if someone gets other health insurance but the rest of your household wants to keep their Marketplace coverage, you can end their Marketplace coverage immediately in most cases.

- 2. You can cancel a stand-alone dental plan and keep your Marketplace health coverage. If you bought a stand-alone dental plan when you enrolled in a Marketplace health plan and now want to end only your dental coverage, you can do so at any time. But, if you need a dental plan from the Marketplace in the future, you won't be able to get only a dental plan without also getting a Marketplace health plan.

- 3. Update your Marketplace application with any changes. If you remove a household member from your Marketplace plan, you may qualify for less savings than you're getting now. If you don't report the change, you may owe money or get a smaller refund when you file your federal tax return.

If your household income goes down, you may qualify for more savings than you're getting now, like lower monthly premiums. You may also qualify for free or low-cost health coverage through Medicaid or CHIP. If you don't report the income change, you may pay more than you need to.
