¹Beginning with 2005, the classification of enrollees living in an urban or rural area is based on the U.S. Census Bureau's Core-Based Statistical Areas (CBSA), which reflects the use of the Census new schema of metropolitan and micropolitan areas based on the 2000 census. For the purpose of this table, an area of residence is defined as rural when it does not fall into either metropolitan or micropolitan categories.

²Medicare enrollees in managed care plans are not included in the denominator used to calculate average payments.

³Excludes Puerto Rico, Guam, Virgin Islands, residence unknown, foreign countries, and other outlying areas not shown separately.

⁴No area for this jurisdiction is defined as rural.

NOTES: Numbers may not add to totals because of rounding. Refer to glossary for definitions of program payments and benefit payments.
